Plymouth Hospital is located to the North of the city centre, near Plymouth Airport.

By road

From the city

Take the A386 northbound (towards Tavistock). Continue on this road past the A38 interchange and up the hill, through the Crownhill district. At Derriford roundabout, turn right into Derriford Road. Follow the road around a sharp bend passing through a set of traffic lights at the turning to the Plymouth Airport. Go straight across the next mini roundabout, and then take the first left into the entrance of the hospital.

If you are reaching Plymouth by the A38 (east or westbound), take the A386 (Tavistock) exit, and follow the above directions.

Parking

Parking is limited at the hospital and visitors are encouraged to use alternative methods of transport whenever possible.

By rail

There are connections to Plymouth train station from around the country. To get to the hospital from the train station, it takes approximately 15 minutes by taxi.
